

Edward C. Henry Award

The Electronics Division of The American Ceramic Society Invites Nominations for The 2011 Edward C. Henry Award

The Edward C. Henry Award is given annually to an outstanding paper reporting original work in the Journal of the American Ceramic Society or the Bulletin during the previous calendar year on a subject related to electronic ceramics. We are currently seeking nominations for the best paper published in calendar year 2010. The winning paper is selected by the Committee on Awards and Scholarships and judged to reflect the best in originality of content, scientific and technical merit, and quality of the presentation.

The author(s) of the Best Paper Award will be presented with a plaque and $500 at the 113th ACerS Annual Meeting/MS&T'11 in Columbus, Ohio, October 16–20, 2011.

Nomination Deadline: July 31, 2011. Nominations received after the nomination date will not be considered for the award.

Nomination Process: ACerS Members are invited to submit a nomination for this award. Self-nominations are not allowed. A valid nomination for each paper should contain:

- the name and member number of the nominator,
- the title, author(s), and the publication details of the paper being nominated, and
- up to a one page description in support of the nomination including a clear discussion on the originality, the scientific and technical merit, the significance of the subject on the field, and the quality of the presentation of the paper.

Nominators can also submit one letter of recommendation from an expert in the field addressing the above criteria, however, a recommendation letter is not necessary. Only formally nominated papers will be considered for the award. Also, only electronic versions of the nomination will be accepted. Papers authored or co-authored by a current member of the Awards and Scholarships Committee are excluded from award consideration.
