COPYRIGHT TRANSFER

This form must be signed by an author or by an authorized agent. In the case of an article commissioned by another person or organization or written as part of duties as an employee, an authorized representative of the commissioning organization or employer should sign. (Note: Employees of the U.S. Government should complete certification form N-CC below.)

Copyright of this work, including electronic rights, is hereby transferred to The American Ceramic Society to the extent transferable under national law. I have the consent of each author to transfer copyright in the above-named article, effective if and when the article is accepted for publication. If the article is not accepted for publication, this transfer does not take effect. However, the following rights are reserved to the author(s):

1. All proprietary rights other than copyright, such as patent rights.
2. The right to revise, adapt, prepare derivative works, present orally or distribute or transmit their own paper to not more than 50 colleagues provided copyright credit is given to The American Ceramic Society. Authors and their employers may post on their own Web sites the title of the paper, abstract (no other text), tables and figures of their own papers, and may include these items in their own scholarly, research papers.
3. The right to grant or refuse permission to third parties to republish all or part of the article or translations thereof. In the case of complete articles, such third parties must also obtain the American Ceramic Society's permission as well.
4. For works prepared under U.S. Government contracts, the Society recognizes the government's prior nonexclusive, royalty-free license to publish, translate, or reproduce the published form of the work, or to allow others to do so for U.S. Government purposes.

To the best of the author's knowledge, the work contains no material whose publication would violate any copyright or other personal or proprietary right of any person or entity. The author(s) also guarantees that the work has not been published previously elsewhere by the author(s).
