

2020 PCSA Lab Blooper Competition

Do you have a funny lab story to tell?

In the PCSA Lab Blooper Competition, tell a story showcasing the learning experience that can result from the occasional mishaps which can occur during ceramic research.

Whether the result is a mess in a lab, a broken testing specimen, or simply a highly unexpected result, as long as nobody is hurt, such incidents can serve as a learning experience for improving lab safety practices and for advancing knowledge of the materials we work with.

Submissions should include both a summary and an illustrative image of the blooper.*

The deadline for submissions has been extended to August 15, 2020.

ceramics.org/pcsalabbloopers

Contact PCSA Programming Chair, Michael Walden at waldenmichael@mines.edu with any questions.

Submissions shall not describe any accident involving personal injury, and shall not contain any reference to personal injury.*