Dear Name:

On behalf of the Board of Directors of The American Ceramic Society (ACerS), I wish to invite you to attend the 2024 Electronic Materials and Applications Conference (EMA'24), February 13 – 16, 2024 at the Hilton City Center hotel in Denver, Colorado, USA. This conference will be for in person attendance only. No virtual or hybrid participation option is planned.

With nineteen topical symposia, EMA 2024 is designed for scientists, engineers, technologists, and students interested in basic science, engineering, and applications of electroceramic materials. Participants from across the world in academia, industry, and national laboratories exchange information and ideas on the latest developments in theory, experimental investigation, and applications of electroceramic materials.

You can find preliminary registration information and related events at <https://ceramics.org/event/ema-2024-basic-science-and-electronic-materials-meeting/>. I regret that The American Ceramic Society cannot provide financial assistance to any attendees, except to offer the special reduced Member registration fee to its members.

We look forward to your participation in the 2024 Electronic Materials and Applications Conference. You may contact ACerS meetings manager, Karen McCurdy (kmccurdy@ceramics.org) with any conference related questions.

Sincerely,

Mark Mecklenborg, Executive Director
The American Ceramic Society
