

Email subject: Endless networking opportunities with ACerS

Hi insert your colleagues name here,

I hope you are doing well. It was so nice to talk to you the other day.

I wanted to reach out to you to see if you would be interested in joining me as a member of The American Ceramic Society, or as we call it, ACerS for short. I value my ACerS membership for several reasons, one of which includes access to up-to-date scientific information gained through ACerS publications or through an opportunity to engage and network at industry events.

With ACerS being the hub of the global ceramics and glass community, I've been able to link up with both peers and thought leaders such as insert name(s) here.

ACerS holds the insert your preferred ACerS conference(s) here conference each year, which I think would interest you. I'll be there and would love to catch up further. There are a lot of connections to be made there, and ACerS membership is a great point of connection.

Finally, I wanted to let you know that ACerS provides an outlet for information and global connections that cannot be found elsewhere. They have a number of resources for students as well which I think would be really helpful as it includes information on awards and scholarships, financial support opportunities, the student mentor program, and more.

Let me know if you have any questions about ACerS Graduate and Doctoral student membership. If you decide to join, please also join me in the insert your ACerS division here Division. You can choose up to three (3) division memberships when you sign up for your ACerS membership.

I'm excited to have you join me at ACerS and I know many who would benefit from being introduced to you as well.

Best regards,
